Dear Mr Amme:

Please don't kill me along with your weeds!

- 1 There is great risk that the weed poison to be used in 17 western states will kill more than just the targeted plants. These mass treatments have always had human, animal and environment implications which can not always be anticipated, either directly or indirectly through runoff or ground water invasion.
- 2 Chemical poisons are designed to kill living things. We should not subject everything to our random chemical technologies.

Thank you for your concern.
